CÀIRDEAS

WHITE PORT AND MADEIRA

Càirdeas (Car-jes) means 'friendship' in Gaelic a suitable name for our annual celebration of the Friends of Laphroaig.

Every year since 2008, our distillery manager has created a limited-edition bottling exclusively for our Friends. First initiated by master distiller John Campbell, the honour passes down through decades of Laphroaig experts. And so, you hold in your hands Barry MacAffer's first Càirdeas release: White Port & Madeira.

WHITE PORT AND MADEIRA

On Islay there is a saying: 'we don't make friends easily, but the ones we do are for life.'

This distinctive selection of cask finishes will delight our friends. Three quarters of the whisky is matured in second-fill Madeira casks, releasing the smoky, spicy and Sweet fruit flavours from these special barrels. The final quarter has been finished in first-fill Port casks; the majority of these are white port, adding a hint of crisp fruit and deep woodiness to the flavour.

A new take on Laphroaig that plays to our strengths -welcoming friends old and new.

AN CUAN MÒR

TRAVEL RETAIL EXCLUSIVE

Inspired by the Atlantic upon which the Laphroaig distillery sits, An Cuan Mòr ("Big-Ocean") is composed from a selection of many casks - each batch hand-selected for its exceptional flavour by our Master Distiller. All have been matured in first fill ex-bourbon barrels in Warehouse No.1 - just a stone's throw from breaking waves. This whisky is then carefully re-casked and left to sleep in the finest European Oak. The result is an extraordinary fusion of flavours, from the unmistakable peat of our spirit, to the soft and spicy caramel tones of the American wood, to the big, rich "burnt apricot and raisin" notes that European oak is so famous for. Any cloudiness when mixed with water is normal for a whisky that hasn't been chill-filtered. To find out more about Laphroaig visit: www.laphroaig.com

QA CASK

DOUBLE MATURED
TRAVEL RETAIL EXCLUSIVE

The first maturation of QA is in ex-bourbon barrels, followed by a transfer to new American white oak barrels (quercus alba). This second intense maturation creates a blend of peat smoke balanced with warm, spicy vanilla notes. The length of time this powerful stage takes varies, meaning each cask is carefully selected by hand to ensure the exact balance of flavours and a warm natural colour. Original Cask Strength Laphroaig whisky is a pure single Islay malt bottled at natural distillery strength. The whisky's rich flavours come through as never before because the whisky has not been chill-filtered. This gives a depth of genuine taste and texture normally associated with sampling a whisky at source. We mature Laphroaig whisky in seasoned oak barrels and this imbues the whisky with the heart and strength of the wood. These barrels are charred before filling to impart the slight sweet vanilla nuttiness of the oak. Original Cask Strength Laphroaig whisky is barrier-filtered only, to remove the small char particles that are present, but this filtering does not change or lessen the flavour in any way. In extremes of temperature it may appear a little cloudy - this is natural condition of a malt of such peaty pungence and uncompromising purity.

The choice is yours, but we recommend that you add twice as much water as whisky to fully appreciate the lingering tast characteristics of Original Cask Strength Laphroaig whisky. Whisky at cask strength quickly overpowers the palate, but adding water will release a rich aroma of peat smoke with some sweetness and strong hints of the sea.

Emphatic, full-bodied and utterly unforgettable.
